

THIS FALL, LIVE IN THE MOMENT AND STAY SAFE!

Spring and fall are my two favorite times of the year. It begins unofficially in late August as the days start getting shorter and the nights get cooler — and by the end of Labor Day weekend, we know it's really begun. Summer vacations have ended, and the kids are back to school.

For our family, though, this will be the first year we don't have a child going back to a local school. My youngest has gone off to college in Wisconsin, exploring her future potential starting with ... CONTINUE READING
