

LIGHTING A PATH FORWARD

Why I'm Passionate
About Injury Law

Light. It literally and figuratively brightens our existence. This month of December reminds me, perhaps more than any other month of the year, of the beauty of light in its various forms. In the Northern Hemisphere, the days of December have the shortest periods of daylight of the year. On Dec. 21, the winter solstice takes place when the North Pole reaches its maximum tilt away from the sun, resulting in the shortest day of the year

Interestingly, during this cold, darkened time of year, many of us observe or celebrate holidays that share a theme of light ... CONTINUE READING
